Mens Wedding Sherwani Style Guide: Colours, Fabrics & Fit Tips

Is there anything more regal and elegant for a groom than a sherwani? This ancient outfit is more than simply clothing; it is a statement of heritage, confidence, and unparalleled sophistication for the man of the moment. Your wedding day requires a style that is both magnificent and personal, combining time-honoured traditions with contemporary flair.

Finding the perfect Mens Wedding Sherwani does not have to be a complex undertaking. The secret lies in a harmonic combination of colour, sumptuous fabric, and an ideal fit. For an ensemble that genuinely reflects your stature and style, look no further than B More International's handpicked collections, which specialize in creating sherwanis that transform fleeting moments into lifelong memories. We've broken down the essentials to help you choose a piece as distinctive and memorable as your wedding day.

Which Colours Will Make You Look Like Royalty?

The colour of your sherwani sets the tone for your complete ensemble. While traditional reds and golds remain timeless, the modern groom has a plethora of regal hues to pick from.

- Classic and Regal: Maroon and Deep Red are longtime favourites that represent love and strength. They go perfectly with rich gold embroidery for an instantly majestic look.
- Majestic and Bold: Royal Blue, Navy, and Emerald Green provide a startling departure from the standard. These jewel tones appear extremely rich, particularly when paired with velvet or silk, and are ideal for evening celebrations.
- Subtle and Sophisticated: Beige, off-white, and ivory all radiate a classic, subtle elegance. They are adaptable and create an excellent canvas for exquisite gold or silver work, making them suitable for both day and night weddings.

- Modern and Fresh: Pastel colours such as mint green, powder blue, and blush pink are popular for daytime and destination weddings. They have a gentler, contemporary charm and go well with lighter bridal gowns.

How Do You Choose the Right Fabric and Workmanship?

The fabric is the soul of the sherwani, determining its drape, comfort, and overall feel. The choice should be influenced by the season, the time of the event, and your particular preferences.

1- Silk (Raw Silk, Tissue Silk)

Ideal For:

Weddings, Formal Evenings

Key Feature:

Natural sheen, luxurious drape, and a classic royal feel. Excellent for intricate embroidery.

2- Velvet

Ideal For:

Winter Weddings, Grand Receptions

Key Feature:

Rich, plush texture that exudes high opulence and warmth. It looks magnificent with minimal embellishment.

3- Brocade & Jacquard

Ideal For:

Traditional Ceremonies, Festive Looks

Key Feature:

Heavy, intricately woven patterns. Brocade is denser, Jacquard is slightly lighter, offering a regal yet comfortable feel.

4- Linen & Cotton Silk

Ideal For:

Summer/Daytime Weddings

Key Feature:

Lightweight, breathable, and comfortable, this fabric offers a refined look without the heat of heavier fabrics.

Craftsmanship, such as Zari, Zardozi, Resham, or Aari work, should be a top priority. B More International's sherwanis are distinguished by their dedication to beautiful, often handcrafted, embroidery that tells a story of legacy and craftsmanship, ensuring that every detail contributes to a really outstanding appearance.

What is the Secret to a Flawless Fit?

The most costly sherwani would seem unimpressive if the fit is bad. The difference between a nice sherwani and a stunning one is frequently only a few tailored inches.

1. Shoulder Seams: The seams should be placed appropriately at the edge of your shoulders, not falling down your arm or straining too tightly against your neck.
2. Chest and Torso: The sherwani should fit your chest comfortably, neither too tight nor too loose. There should be ample room to move your arms freely, but the body should softly taper toward the waist to create a pleasing, crisp silhouette.
3. Sleeve Length: The sleeve should terminate at the wristbone. If it hides your hands or appears cropped, the entire outfit loses its polished look.

4. Length: The ideal length for a traditional sherwani is slightly below the knee, resulting in a classic, elongated, and regal appearance. Shorter, Achkan-style, or Indo-Western cuts can be worn above the knee for a more contemporary look.
5. Bottom Wear: Whether you choose a classic churidar, dhoti, or straight-cut trousers, ensure the bottoms complement the cut of the sherwani and fit well for all-day wear.

The B More International Difference: Choosing a custom-tailored or made-to-measure piece from B More International ensures that the garment is cut to your exact body measurements, minimizing frequent fitting concerns and providing a faultless, confidently worn appearance.

Completing the Royal Look: Accessories

Your sherwani is the masterpiece, but the correct accessories complete the look. They can accentuate a simple pattern or work wonderfully with a richly embroidered one.

- Safa (Turban): A finely draped turban with a Kalgi (Brooch) is the ideal symbol of a royal groom. Choose a hue that complements the detailing on your sherwani or contrasts sharply for a splash of colour.
- Stole/Dupatta: A silk or velvet stole with rich borders, draped over one shoulder or across both elbows, adds grandeur and colour.
- Shoes: Ditch the formal shoes! Traditional Mojaris or juttis, made from rich leather, velvet, or embroidered silk, are essential to complete the ethnic look.
- Jewellery: Subtly stylish accessories, such as pearl or beaded neckpieces (malas), cufflinks, and ornate buttons, have a significant impact.

In Conclusion:

Your wedding day is a celebration of your journey, and your dress should represent both your personality and the grandeur of the event. By attentively selecting the proper colours, rich, high-quality fabrics, and guaranteeing a flawless fit, you will not only wear a sherwani, but also have the appearance of a monarch.

At B More International, we combine heritage craftsmanship with contemporary silhouettes to produce a Mens Wedding Sherwani that is both comfortable and regal. Choose a piece that makes you feel confident, empowered, and ready to take on your new chapter with style.
